There was a time that you were not born. There also was a time that your Daddy and your Mommy were not born yet. And a time that your grandparents didn't live on earth. But God has always been there. He is the One who created everything. There also was a time there was no earth at all. Today I will tell you the story of how God created everything that you can see.

In the beginning it was dark. And then God said, "Let there be light." Suddenly there was light. God only spoke a word and it happened exactly how He wanted it. When He saw the light, He said, "This is what I will call 'day.'" When it became dark again, He said, "This is what I will call 'night.'" And God said, "This is good." That was the first day.

The second day, God created something new. There was water all over the place. God said, "I want to make a sky." When He saw that, He said again, "This is good." That was the second day.

When the night was over, God said, "I want to make dry ground, large portions of land." And then? It happened, exactly how God wanted it.

Page 5

God said, "I want to see mountains. I want to see valleys. I want to see flat land and I want to see land, green with grass and other land that is rugged."

Page 6

Then God said, "Let's make the earth beautiful. I will create trees, all kinds of trees. Beautiful."

Page 7

"I also want to see flowers. Nice flowers in all kinds of colors and shapes: purple, red and yellow." When God looked around, He said, "This is good." That was the third day.

The next day God said, "I want to make something special." Then He created a big light in the sky. During the day you can see it, the sun. For the night God also created a light, the moon and lots of stars. Have you ever tried to count them? Now you can understand how mighty our God is. God said, "This will help to see the difference between day and night. But it will also make different seasons and years." This was the fourth day. And God said, "This is good."

The next morning, the sun was shining bright and God said, "I want to continue, I want to beautify the earth. Let's make birds that can fly in the sky, big eagles, small sparrows, all kinds of birds. And in the water, I want to see fish, small ones and big ones, all different kinds of fishes." God enjoyed Himself on this fifth day. He said, "This is good."

Then the sixth day came. Was God finished? No. He said, "I want to see animals on the earth." Do you see the zebras?

God created all kinds of animals, very small ones, like ants and spiders. He also created dogs and cats, and very big animals like the lion.

It was so beautiful on the earth. You could hear the birds singing. Butterflies were flying around. God saw it was so good, but He still wasn't done. On that sixth day He also made the first people on earth. How He did that, that you will hear in the next story. After the sixth day, God rested. That was the seventh day.
